Subject: B Reactor Cleanup

Dear Mr. Faulk:

I urge you to support the additional cleanup necessary to prepare the B reactor for conversion into a museum. The B reactor was an integral part in the ending of World War II, and it was the first, full-size nuclear reactor in the entire world. Its role in the ending of the war, the stand-off of the cold war and the subsequent creation of the Hanford Reach is too important to relegate it to only pictorial representation and a mock control room in the Smithsonian.

Please support the maintaining of the B reactor as a museum.

Sincerely,

William W. Porath
